Narrator: One day, as Jesus was walking through a land called Samaria, He came across a well.

Jesus: (walk on and sit on one of the seats)

Narrator: There, He sat to rest.

Jesus: (sigh)

Narrator: A little while later, a Samaritan woman arrived to collect water from the well.

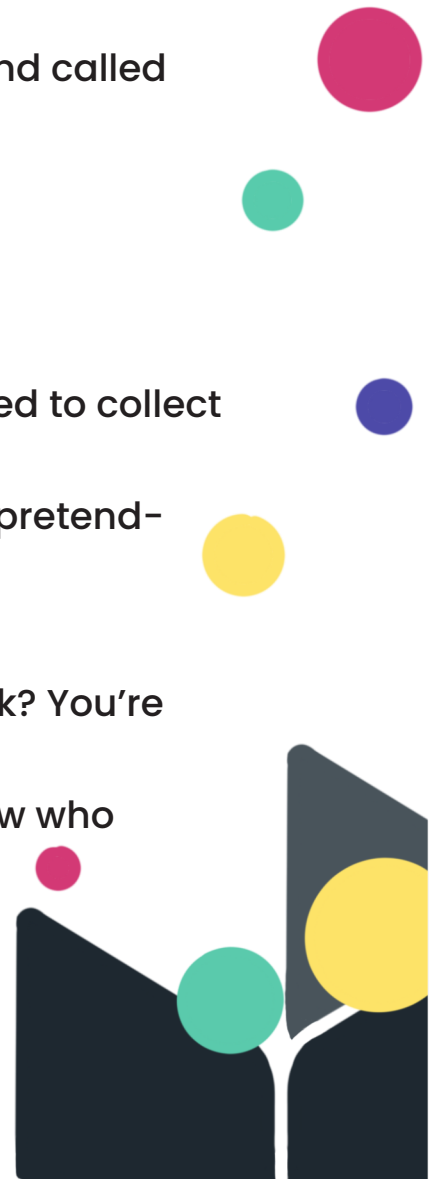

Woman: (Walk on holding bucket, lean over the chair pretending to collect water)

Jesus: Please, could you give me some water?

Woman: (surprised) Why are you asking me for a drink? You're a Jew, and I'm a Samaritan. Our people don't mix.

Jesus: you don't know what God gives, nor do you know who asks you. If you knew you would be asking me. I would have given you living water.

Woman: (confused) where would you get this living water? You don't even have a bucket and this well is very deep.

Narrator: But Jesus smiled and began to tell her the power of this living water.

Jesus: It will bring eternal life.

Woman: Sir, please give me this living water, so then I will never be thirsty.

Narrator: Then, Jesus told her many things about her life that others would not have known.

Jesus: (miming talking to the woman)

Narrator: The woman grew more and more intrigued by this man.

Woman: You must be a prophet, I know that the Messiah is coming, and when He does, He will explain everything to us.

Jesus: He is talking to you right now. I am he.

Narrator: The woman couldn't believe it.

Woman: (drop the bucket and run around the space telling everyone she has met the Messiah) A man has just told me everything I've ever done. This man could be the Messiah!

Crowd: (gather around Jesus) Please sir, won't you stay with us.

Narrator: Jesus agreed to stay with them for two days. Where he preached the good news of God, and many people believed.
